Four-Peat! Cooks Take Scavenger Hunt Title

Todd, Tim, and Kellan Cook Edge Out Nick Badders, Earn 4th Straight Championship

Oct 25, 2013

The Cook Dynasty continued once again this season in the myGameBalls.com Photo Scavenger Hunt as the Father/Sons team posted the highest total score for the fourth consecutive season. Todd, Tim, and Kellan, who also publish a popular blog, managed to successfully capture 11 out of the 19 possible photos and totalled 73 points.

In the second to last week of the season, the Cooks scored the contest's most difficult photo, a 10-pointer that shows Tim and Kellan appearing on the MLB Network's

Intentional Talk program. In addition to this prized photo, they also racked up big points with these other photos:

- A photo of a player who's jersey number is the square root of another player's (6 points)
- A photo with another myGameBalls.com member in a row in which every cup holder contains a baseball (6 points)
- A photo at the location of home plate at the old Veterans Stadium (5 points)
- A photo of the Cooks swinging bats at the BallhawkFest homerun derby (5 points)
- A photo of a player who's jersey number equals the sum of two other player's (5 points)

Todd, Tim, and Kellan also earned a variety of bonus points for snapping photos of their snagged baseballs at various stadiums, and also getting shots of themselves with the career myGameBalls.com leader at many of the stadiums.

Also getting points in the contest were Nick Badders (56), Kelly Byrnes (28), Larry Larson (14), Michel Audet (9), Jacqui Reynolds (4) and Angel Arroyo (4). Badders in particular should be commended for finishing in a close second and putting pressure on the Cooks throughout the year.
